

MASSACHUSETTS GENERAL HOSPITAL NURSING EDUCATION ACROSS 150 YEARS:

A CASE STUDY IN SOCIAL FACTORS IMPACTING ITS SUCCESS

Wednesday
April 23, 2025

1-2 pm (ET)
via Zoom

To register for this free presentation,
scan QR code or visit:

bostonu.zoom.us/webinar/register/WN_U0_B30-CRxO319DTyc48yw

NURSING ARCHIVES ASSOCIATES
SPRING PROGRAM

Mary E. Larkin, MS, RN, CRN-BC is an Assistant Professor at Harvard Medical School and is the current President and History Chair of the MGH Nurses' Alumni Association. She will describe the founding of the SON, the "one-year experiment" and subsequent success.

Karen Anne Wolf, PhD, RNP, DPNAP is a community health clinical specialist and an adult nurse practitioner. She is currently collecting an oral history of the first generation of nurse practitioners in Massachusetts. She will discuss the evolution of diploma to university education: facilitating and hindering factors.

Kenneth R. White, PhD, APRN-BC, FACHE, FADLN, FAAN is Dean Emeritus of the SON at the MGH Institute of Health Professions. He will provide commentary on where we are today in nursing education, current programs and continued responsiveness to social/economic climate of health care.

BOSTON UNIVERSITY

History of Nursing Archives
Boston University Libraries
Howard Gottlieb Archival Research Center
771 Commonwealth Avenue · Boston, MA 02215
nursing@bu.edu · 617-353-3696

Co-sponsored by the MGH Nurses' Alumni Association
mghsonalumni.org